AGUINALDO'S PLEA TO QUIT TURNED DOWN

MacArthur Scorn: Surrender Demand Messaged By Radio

AWAITS NEW DRIVE FROM JAP HORDES

Nippon Armies Reinforced By Troops Landed at Lingayen

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—General MacArthur's army scorned the call of the embittered old Filipino rebel, Emilio Aguinaldo, for immediate surrender and once more set itself today against the shock of new assault from a gathering Japanese horde to the north.

The Philippines commander sent word of the surrender plea as he awaited attack by Japanese armies being reinforced from nine transports which were unloading troops yesterday in Lingayen gulf.

"During the past few days American and Filipino troops have been bombarded by the Japanese with radio broadcasts and pamphlets urging them to surrender," said a war department communique last night.

"These appeals have occasioned considerable amusement for the troops."

Philippines "Quisling"
A radio broadcast addressed to General MacArthur was made by Emilio Aguinaldo, from Manila. Aguinaldo, who led the revolution against the United States in 1899, is apparently being put forward by the Japanese as a sort of Philippine Quisling. He urged immediate surrender. The appeal was ignored by General MacArthur.

A slight, strutting, peck-marked 72-year-old reminder of island turmoil, Aguinaldo lived in feudal grandeur amid bodyguards, servants and family retainers at his estate near Manila for 40 years.

He kept a solemn oath not to engage in subversive activities against the United States or the Philippine commonwealth; but Manila knew he always nursed the idea of being head of an independent state.

He was a silent, solemn figure at such state occasions as inaugurations or sessions of the territorial legislature, but took little part in public life.

One reason was that he spoke only Spanish and Tagalog, his native dialect, refusing to learn English. To those who asked why, Aguinaldo invariably replied: "We have been promised our freedom. If that promise is kept, no one need speak English."

Aided U. S. Troops
Aguinaldo never forgot that when a United States warship carried him back to the Philippines from exile by the Spanish in 1898, he rallied 50,000 of his countrymen to aid American troops throughout the island of Manila and to victory over the Spaniards.

But when Philippine Nationalist troops were dashed by the treaty of Paris which recognized American jurisdiction over the islands, he led his armies in open revolt. He was captured by General Frederick Funston after two years of stubborn fighting. On April 19, 1901, he took an oath of allegiance to the United States.

In recent years Aguinaldo has had little influence in politics, and it is doubtful whether his appeal would carry much weight with the Filipinos.

He's Co-ordinator

John T. Burns, of the Church Budget Envelope Co., heads the county fire rationing organization as county co-ordinator. After his appointment to this position he resigned as chairman of the rationing committee of the Salem Civilian Defense council.

Burns was chairman of the Salem draft board for a year, having resigned recently. He also is a member of the board of education.

BOOST COUNTY OFFICE FUNDS

Commissioners Act to Alleviate Threatened Personnel Cut

LISBON, Feb. 7.—The county commissioners meeting in session here Friday afternoon settled an impasse which has existed in the county government since mid-January by amending their annual appropriations for clerk hire and salaries in seven county offices, transferring $15,619.24 from the unanticipated emergencies fund.

While the additional moneys appropriated will alleviate somewhat the threatened reduction in personnel in the various offices, the figures still preclude curtailment of operating expenses, or payless paydays at the end of the year. County officials thus far, with the exception of Clerk of Courts John W. Coleman and Engineer Charles Snyder, who have each cut their personnel by two, have failed to cut their departments pending an adjustment of salary appropriations.

The largest fund cut partially restored was $4,731 transferred to the auditor's deputy and clerk hire salary, which had been cut approximately $7,000 in the original appropriation; while the next largest sum, $3,985.86 was restored to the probate court, listing an increase of approximately $700 above 1941 salaries.

With the increased appropriations the comparative figures are:

Office	Increase	Total '42
Auditor	$4,731	$19,979
Probate	3,985.86	6,000.39
Juvenile	1,637.00	12,804.60
Treasurer	2,634.00	9,006.27
Sheriff	1,361.00	11,540.50
Clerk	724.38	9,150.00
Recorder	915.00	6,530.00
Engineer	231.00	13,280.55

The 1941 appropriations were: Auditor, $23,897.86; probate court, $12,124.97; juvenile court, $6,720; treasurer, $15,556.50; sheriff, $10,031.28; clerk, $12,357.37; recorder, $6,840; engineer, $15,895.50.

SLIPPERY STREETS CAUSE ACCIDENTS

Several accidents were reported to police this morning as a result of slippery streets.

Eugene Walsh of Pittsburgh escaped uninjured when his steel-laden truck skidded on E. State st. near Union ave., at 8 a. m., went up over the sidewalk and struck a tree and street light pole, police said.

Thelma McIntosh, 31, of R. D. 3, East Liverpool, suffered a head bump when her automobile skidded into a deep ditch on the Lisbon road, at Engleton's glen, at 12:30 a. m. today, state highway patrolmen said.

Cars operated by Mrs. Mabel Todd of R. D. 4, and George Brantingham of Winona were involved in a mishap on Newgarden st. Friday evening.

Meeting Is Postponed
The meeting of the Columbiana County Medical auxiliary, scheduled for Tuesday evening at Warner's tea room in Lisbon, has been postponed until March 10, the next regular meeting date.

SUGAR RATION PLAN TO START IN FEW WEEKS

Fear of What Neighbors May Say Expected To Bar Hoarding

SCHOOL TEACHERS TAKE APPLICATIONS

Each Consumer Must Specify Amount He Already Has On Hand

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—Fear of what the neighbors might think or say is expected to prove a powerful deterrent to sugar hoarding under the stamp rationing plan which will start in a few weeks with registration of consumers in their neighborhood school houses. The announcement by Price Administrator Leon Henderson that school teachers would be his agents in handling the applications of consumers for stamp books—one for every adult and child in the country—placed the sugar rationing plan, like that for tires and tubes, on a neighborhood basis.

That fact, some officials thought, might be as effective as the stern but hard-to-enforce legal penalties which could be invoked against hoarding or bootleg buying.

"Gossip" Is Weapon

Each householder's knowledge that the people next door might gossip and this might reach the ears of the local rationing boards, which will supervise the issuance of stamp books, might head off any inclination to hoard sugar, these officials noted.

Far from threatening, however, Henderson yesterday based his appeal for cooperation solely on patriotic grounds—"for the first time every person in this country now has an opportunity to make a direct contribution to the war."

Other OPA officials said the temptation to hoard might disappear as individuals discovered they could get along all right on 12 ounces a week and that the war production board was responsible for guaranteeing that this amount, or close to it, would be available unfailingly in grocery stores.

The person who registers for his family's copies of "war ration book No. 1" will sign an application declaring the amount of sugar in his home. On the application form will be a reminder that making false statements to any federal agency is a criminal offense carrying penalties up to $10,000 fine or ten years' imprisonment.

Allowed 2 Pounds per Person
Those whose family exceeds two pounds per person will have an approximate number of stamps determined from the front of their books. Since each stamp will be numbered for use in 28 consecutive weeks, those lacking the first few stamps will have to use up the sugar in the cupboards before getting more.

Each stamp will entitle the book holder to buy a specified amount of sugar, probably 12 ounces a week. Consumers will tender stamps to

STOLEN COAL SALE HERE BROKEN UP

Two Youths Fined; Three Juveniles In Case Not Accused

A youthful "business enterprise" which involved the sale of stolen coal to local residents with near-empty coal bins, came to an abrupt halt yesterday when police and state highway patrolmen arrested the owner of the truck in which deliveries were made and questioned four other boys.

Thomas G. Markovich, 21, of R. D. 2, charged with petty larceny in connection with thefts at the Arrow Feed Service, pleaded guilty to the charge and was fined $50 and costs Friday afternoon by Mayor R. R. Johnson.

Charged by the state patrol with permitting an unlicensed driver to operate his truck, Markovich was also fined $10 and costs.

Kenneth Fets, 18, of Salem, charged by the patrol with failure to have a driver's license, was fined $10 and costs by the mayor.

Markovich, Police Chief Ralph Stoffer said, admitted taking coal from the Pennsylvania railroad, the Paumotu coal yard, the Salem Builders & Supply and the Buckeye mine southeast of Lisbon. He also admitted taking a half ton of feed from the Arrow Feed Service.

Fets and three other boys of juvenile age, who had accompanied Markovich on different occasions, said that they understood the trucker had obtained permission to get the coal because he told them

Questions And Answers On Rationing Of Sugar

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—Here are a few questions and answers clarifying some details of the sugar-rationing program:

Q. When will rationing begin?
A. Probably not for another three weeks or more.

Q. What credentials will be needed to make purchases of sugar?
A. The ordinary domestic consumer must have a book of sugar ration stamps; details covering rationing to large industrial users, hotels, restaurants, and institutions have not yet been announced.

Q. Who gets the books?
A. A "war ration book No. 1" is being printed for each person in the country, regardless of age.

Q. How are they to be issued?
A. One person will register for each family unit; at the time of registration, he will be given a book of stamps for each member of his family.

Q. Where will he register and who will have charge of the registration?
A. Consumers will register at local public schools, under direction of school teachers and under the general supervision of local rationing boards.

Q. What does a "family unit" include?
A. Father, mother, children and wards. Other persons living in the household must register separately and receive books, except in unusual cases such as invalids.

Q. How much sugar can you buy with the stamp book?
A. Each book will contain 28 stamps; each stamp is numbered and will be good for the purchase of about 12 ounces of sugar during a designated week. When sugar is purchased, the buyer tears out the proper stamp and gives it to the storekeeper.

Q. What about persons with stocks of sugar on hand now?
A. At the time of registration, each registrant will be required to certify as to the amount of sugar per person in his family's possession. If the amount exceeds two pounds per person, the excess will be classed as "hoarded" sugar and an appropriate number of stamps will immediately be removed from the family's books. Book-holders thus will be unable to buy additional sugar until the family's stock is used up.

Q. What will prevent a registrant from making a false certification as to his family's sugar stocks?
A. Each certificate signed at the time of registration will carry on its face a warning that false reports to the government make the reporting person liable to a fine of as high as $10,000 or 10 years imprisonment.

Q. What will prevent a bachelor, for instance, who does not cooking from registering and disposing of his books to someone else?
A. OPA officials say regulations covering that point are being worked out; for example, OPA says it has not yet been determined whether special machinery will be devised to cover individuals eating regularly in hotels or restaurants.

Q. What will be done during the canning and preserving season to help farmers' wives and others to get additional supplies of sugar?
A. This problem also is being worked out. OPA says arrangements will be made to give such persons additional rations during the season but details covering these special cases have not been perfected.

MENTION HILLMAN AS POSSIBLE HEAD

Presidential Executive Order Is Expected Within the Month

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—Creation of a manpower control administration, which could apportion Americans as needed among factory, farm and firing line, was under study in the capital today.

Some well-placed sources said an executive order might come from the White House within the month, setting up a body to determine which citizens should keep on producing food and weapons and which should be enrolled for military service.

Hillman Possible Head
Sidney Hillman, head of the war production board's labor division, was mentioned as a likely head of the agency.

As co-director of the now defunct OPM, he was credited for the success in training skilled workers, foremen and "lead men" in sufficient numbers to keep ahead of the dizzily expanding labor demand in shipyards, mills and factories.

Whether the predicted manpower control agency would function within the war production board or outside it was not known.

It was thought unlikely that such a new agency would have powers as large at the beginning as might be attached to it later, for weeks some officials have spoken guardedly of the eventual necessity—when the expanding army cuts deeply into the labor supply—for an agency which could direct selective service registrants into other than military service.

Draft Board Aid Seen
While none would be quoted, these officials believe that such action ultimately will have to be applied at the local draft board level. In an area where machinists are scarce, for instance, a book-keeper who once worked in a machine shop might find himself ordered not into the army, but into a factory.

It was emphasized, is not an immediate possibility and would require congressional action.

Some moves toward a better utilization of manpower are under way already. The national selective service system has reported that it will undertake, some time after the Feb. 16 registration, to send questionnaires to men already registered, in order to obtain additional data on the vocational training and experience of all registrants.

CROATIAN PAPERS ARE SEIZED BY FBI

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND, Feb. 7.—All records and documents of two Croatian organizations in six northern Ohio towns are being held by the Federal Bureau of Investigation for grand jury action. Subpoenas have been issued for four Akron men.

Lee V. Boardman, FBI agent in charge at Cleveland, said the seizures were made on the Croatian Home Defenders, also known as Domobran, and on the Croatian National Representation for the Independence of Croatia.

The seizures, part of a nationwide move yesterday, were made in Youngstown, Akron, Warren, Barberton, Campbell and Cleveland. The records were taken after subpoenas were issued by the attorney general for such records to be brought immediately before a federal grand jury.

Although no arrests were made, subpoenas named Frank Budac, national treasurer of Domobran; Dr. Joseph Skofec, Rudolph Erie, and Marko Tkalec, all Akronites and officers of Domobran.

Croatian-American leaders here said they knew of no active chapters of either organization in Cleveland but some of their former members are reported to be operating under other names. Since Croatia has become a Nazi puppet state, the department of justice said some officials of the Croatian societies apparently were sources of Nazi propaganda.

FBI officials reported simultaneous raids were made in Pittsburgh, where the two clubs have national offices, and in 15 other cities.

Register Aliens Here
Registration of enemy aliens will get underway Monday at the Salem postoffice. Postmaster A. E. Beardmore said today.

The citizens of Germany, Italy, Bulgaria and Japan, who are involved, must present their 1940 alien registration cards and must show three photos of themselves taken within the past 30 days.

UNNATURAL FOR AMERICANS

Inner misgivings about a policy of sitting tight and keeping braced for the enemy's next blow are beginning to come out. Americans do not relish the defensive role they are playing in the war. They prefer the dynamic tactics of the Germans to the holding-up tragedy of the British.

They go one step further and suspect that the British may not be the best of all possible counselors on the subject of the war. They still have too much of the nothing-can-happen-to-us attitude of the French. They still are too devoted to waiting to see what the other side is going to do.

This is unnatural for Americans. They do not quarrel with the doctrine that they must become the arsenal of democracy to win the war. But they do take violent exception to any hint that the job can be done by what the theorists call a war of attrition, which simply means wearing out the other side without going on the offensive.

Americans have been pleased by every sign of offensive-mindedness on the part of their government, made uneasy by every hint that those responsible for war policy were thinking about winning the war with multi-billion-dollar appropriations. If they were plotting the strategy, they would revert outright to Gen. Hooker's strategy of gittin' somewhere fustest with the mostest men; it's their natural style of fighting.

NO SECURITY AT SINGAPORE

Airplanes, it is evident, will write the story of Singapore. Japanese air power already has the British base under siege; it is useless as a naval base to Britain already, though still in British hands.

Against Japanese air power the British are pitting their siege guns, permanent installations of extra-heavy artillery designed to hold at bay any enemy approaching by land or sea. But the guns cannot reach Japan's air bases, nor can they shoot straight up to destroy the bombers that are systematically destroying the last focal point of British resistance in the Far East.

There is hope of saving Singapore—and most of it springs from belief that fighting airplanes will be made available in sufficient quantities to hold Japan's air power at bay. As long as the Japanese can bomb the city almost at will, the battle will be one-sided. There is no match for aerial bombardment. It is as far ahead of long-range artillery as the artillery was ahead of the clumsy field pieces on which Napoleon built his success.

THE DOORBELL LIST

The state supreme court's decision upholding an ordinance of the City of Struthers prohibiting hand-bell distributors from ringing doorbells casts a ray of hope. It is difficult to see how the court could arrive at any other decision, however.

A doorbell is private property. It is used on the sufferance of the owner, though he regards it as an appliance for his own convenience as well as for the convenience of those who want to get his attention. But he does not have to provide a doorbell if he does not choose to, nor any other appliance for the same purpose.

In fact, if he chooses he can post a list of so-and-so's who are not to ring his doorbell under any consideration. If they disobey and he can catch them, he can throw them down the front steps. And they can throw him down their front steps if he doesn't behave on their premises. On second thought, it might be better to remove the steps so no one can get to the doorbell in the first place. It would save a lot of time wasted by doorbell ringers who have nothing better to do.

FEBRUARY WEATHER

Weather statistics—and even they are curtailed by the need for keeping vital information out of the hands of the enemy—only suggest what happens in the snow belt of the United States during February.

It is the month of mental and physical surrender to the inroads of winter, the month when there is a compelling reason for experimenting with vitamins, the month when there is nothing to look forward to but the still remote arrival of the sunshine season in May, with perhaps a few bright, balmy days in April as appetizers.

February is, to be blunt about it, the time when persons who don't like winter anyway are confirmed in their dislike. They are tired of slush and rain and snow that turns to slush. They do not relish the prospect that it may turn colder and the promise that it may turn warmer is no comfort because soon it is going to turn colder anyway. February, in a word, is a bust as far as weather is concerned. Its only redeeming feature is that there are never more than 29 days of it to endure.

THE STARS SAY:

For Sunday, February 8.

SUNDAY'S horoscope is not a fortunate one, holding sign of difficulties in travel, with agencies, superiors and elders, also danger of accidents, falls, fires or other injuries, unless particularly watchful and alert. Make no changes, and guard against illness from colds, congestions or rheumatic colds, congestions or rheumatic pains. There may be loss, disappointment and morbidity.

Those whose birthday it is may not expect a favorable year, since loss, grief, illness and disappointment are presaged. Take care of the health and possessions and safeguard the physical well-being, as accident or fall, fire or theft is possible. Postpone change and travel.

A child born on this day may have to endure many vicissitudes in life. It should have fortitude and courage instilled early in life, with optimistic philosophy, as it may be morose or sullen.

For Monday, February 9.

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is for a moderately successful day in connection with public interests, collective or group work or with large and important corporations. However, it is dangerous to take chances with accident, fire, loss or theft, and it will be difficult to get along with employers or superiors. New matters may progress.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves in a year of difficulties with employers or superiors, also with the treacherous or unscrupulous. They should be vigilant on travel, agencies, with papers and agreements, also against theft or fire. Be cautious in all dealings.

A child born on this day may be the victim of treacherous and unscrupulous persons, as it may have inclinations in that direction itself. Early training and discipline are indicated.

HEART DISEASE OFTEN FALSE DIAGNOSIS

A Lot of It is Imaginary, Physicians Declare

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
AT THE beginning of Dr. Richard Cabot's book Facts on the Heart, he puts down the statement, "Most heart disease is imaginary."

Every practicing doctor who sees many patients knows that this is true. The words "heart disease" are fearsome sounds to most people and it is no wonder when some doctor makes a careless remark about a dropped beat in the pulse or a little rise in blood pressure or a queer sound in the heart, that this should create dread and foreboding.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Many kinds of instruments have been placed in the doctor's hands to use in examining the heart, and sometimes one doctor or another hasn't learned how to use these wisely. It was this sort of practice that caused an eminent American medical man to wish that the blood pressure instrument had never been invented and caused Sir James MacKenzie to say that the stethoscope had done more harm than good.

I find much wisdom in the list given by a Boston physician of various signs and symptoms apparently produced by the heart in its complicated work, but which do not necessarily mean heart disease.

Slow Pulse

For instance, there is slow pulse. A pulse as slow as 50 is commonly found in young athletes. Slow pulses are also regularly found in elderly people and in convalescents from any illness. Irregularity of the heart doesn't mean heart disease. There is one form of irregularity that occurs in over seventy-five per cent of young people in which the pulse is faster during inspiration of the breath than in expiration. At the other extreme of life, seventy-five per cent of people over fifty-five years old have an irregularity off the pulse in the form of dropped beat.

"THURSDAY'S CHILD" by VERA BROWN

FROM THE OLD RHYME: "THURSDAY'S CHILD HAS FAR TO GO"

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN

Five minutes later, O'Regan brought his prisoner into the Chief's office. O'Regan threw the watch, the money, and gun on the desk. "There it is, Chief."

Kirk was present, so were other troopers and the newspaper men. After O'Regan's first few words, the reporters scattered for telephones. It was the "big break" on the story.

Kirk shook Sergeant O'Regan's hand, and then hurried off to telephone his father. Ten minutes later, he returned to the Chief's office. They brought in Sonny. She turned to Kirk. "They found him!" she cried.

"Yes, dear."

Later that night, Kirk took Sonny to a little country hotel. They must stay for the coroner's inquest the next day.

Sonny tried to thank him for standing by. "You believed. That is what was so wonderful." And after a short pause, "Kirk, how can I go on? Your mother! I can't face her. It's really all my fault. If I hadn't run off as I did, Tom would be home with her now."

"Everything will be all right," comforted Kirk, although he too had his misgivings.

Sonny would have been more upset if she knew the furor the murder caused in New York, glaring headlines, long stories and pictures—pictures.... pictures!

Later, when Sonny had finally gone to bed, Kirk telephoned his father again. The latter was pleased at Sonny's vindication. But on one thing he was determined: She must not come back to Long Island. "Your mother can't stand it, Kirk. She's simply prostrated over Tom. She won't see Leslie. You'll have to take her somewhere else."

"Where?" demanded Kirk.

"You'll have to figure that out for yourself. She can't come here. Not yet. Later maybe. I don't want to be cruel, but your mother comes first these days. She needs all the help we can give her."

Kirk went to bed but not to sleep. It seemed the best plan to take Sonny to their lodge up in the Adirondacks. He might have to leave her there with just the caretaker. But it was the only haven he could think of for the present.

The inquest went smoothly. By four o'clock it was over Sonny bore up well.

Later that afternoon, Kirk and Sonny motored south after he had explained their destination, stressing that "I hate to leave you alone there but there is nothing else I can think of just now. I must go home and make the funeral arrangements and under the circumstances, I do not think it advisable for you to come."

It was a long trip. They did not reach the lodge until midnight. The caretaker had been notified. There was a cheerful fire burning and a tasty supper ready, but neither Kirk nor Sonny had any appetite.

"I'll be leaving early in the morning before you're up," Kirk said. "I'll try to get back in a week." "Your mother must hate me." "No. But she's grief-stricken. Tom was her favorite."

"Yes. There is nothing I can do to make things up to her."

"If there is a child—"

"Sonny interrupted with, 'I should have told you before. Tom invented that story.'

Kirk murmured, "That's too bad—a child might have helped. I'd hoped for Mother's sake—"

Sonny's voice was bitter: "Nothing would help. I knew. Always I knew. I told Tom and he laughed at me."

There was nothing more to be said between them. Suddenly each was anxious to be free of the other. Sonny said goodbye to Kirk and went to bed.

Next morning when she awakened, she found a $20 bill on her dressing table. Kirk had gone as he said. She was alone.

During the morning day-old newspapers came from the city. The headlines and pictures still "played up" the Hollister case.

Caretaker Jackie and his wife, tried to be kind, but they had agreed Tom, Sonny felt that they blamed her for his tragic end.

"I feel like a criminal," she told herself. "There's only one thing to do: 'Go away and let them forget me.'"

The Jekies did not discover that Sonny was gone until the next morning. The caretaker telephoned Kirk immediately.

"Did she leave a note for me?" That was his first question. "Yes, and a note to us telling us not to worry. She's gone to get a job. We tried to be nice to her. Mr. Kirk, but she seemed depressed."

Kirk was so impatient to get Sonny's letter that he had Jackie drive down to Long Island with it. The missive read:

"Dear Kirk—Thank you for everything. I hope in time people will forget. I know they blame me. I don't blame anybody and I'm sorry for us all. I'm going to get a job. Thanks for the $20."

Poor kid! I shouldn't have left her there, thought Kirk. This would mean more trouble. He had to find her. The insurance people had been talking to his father. They wanted an appointment. Sonny would be a wealthy girl. That had to be settled.

Kirk put in a telephone call for Sergeant O'Regan up in Malone. "I'm just going on my vacation," said the officer.

"You've got to help me. We can't have any more publicity. If you'll help in the search on your vacation, I'll see to it that you are well compensated."

O'Regan agreed, promising to meet Kirk the following day at a Brooklyn hotel.

Next day, Kirk and O'Regan sat talking over a late luncheon. The trooper observed: "She'll be in a restaurant. I think. That's the only work she knows. I might just as well start out along the bus lines east. I found out she got a bus for Lake George on my way down."

"We've got to produce her in three days somehow or the insurance company will get suspicious," Kirk said. "Once they know, it will get out I'm afraid. Too many people will begin asking questions."

O'Regan left immediately. He went directly to Lake George and discovered she'd gone south toward Saratoga. When he phoned Kirk, the first night, the latter said, "If you find her, bring her to New York City. I know a woman there who'll take care of her until we can get matters straightened."

The woman was Ann Carmichael. Ann came from a good family. She had an unfortunate marriage which was ended, and she was living on a small income.

Kirk called on Ann that afternoon and told her his troubles. Ann, watching him, speculated. "Are you in love with her yourself?" she asked suddenly.

Kirk flushed. "What a ridiculous idea! I want to save Mother more suffering. Besides she's Tom's widow."

"I'll help. I just wanted to know the circumstances."

Kirk went back to Long Island to wait for the hoped-for call from O'Regan. But it did not come that night.

Three days, four days, Hollister, Sr., was frantic. The insurance people were insistent. Hollister explained that his daughter-in-law was recuperating from the shock of her arrest and the death of her husband. Kirk waited, utterly helpless. His father was all for sending out a general alarm. But Kirk stopped that. "Look at it from Sonny's angle. She knows we don't want her. You can't blame her."

"Nonsense! She's a rich girl. She should have some sense."

"It's up to us to teach her."

"What will we do with her when we find her?"

"I'm going to send her to Ann Carmichael."

Hollister snorted: "Fine example!"

"She can manage Leslie."

Hollister, Sr., firmly hoped so but he had his doubts.

Later one night O'Regan pulled up at a roadside eating place ten miles north of Saratoga Springs. In the kitchen, bending over a pan of dishes, was Leslie. When she saw the officer, she exclaimed, "O'Regan!" and seemed glad to see a familiar face.

"When are you through?" he asked.

"In an hour."

"I'll wait in the car outside. I want a talk with you."

"Well, you want to know why I'm here?" O'Regan asked after Sonny joined him and they drove off in his car.

"I suppose Kirk wanted to find me."

"The Insurance Company does."

"Oh!"

"You see, kid, you're a wealthy young woman today."

Sonny blazed: "I don't want their money!"

O'Regan laughed: "It isn't theirs. It's yours. Tom wanted you to have it."

"I hate them all! I never want to see them again."

Tells of Five Days in Lifeboat

Reporter and Chief Officer Kelly
Back in New York after surviving a torpedoing at sea, Chief Officer Percy A. Kelly of the Canadian National liner Lady Hawkins, and commander of the only lifeboat found of the three which left the sinking ship, relates his experiences to a reporter. Kelly said his little craft traveled 120 miles in five days on the open sea, packed with 76 men, women and children of the 326 aboard the liner. The passenger liner which brought Kelly and the other survivors to New York was menaced by three submarines in the Caribbean but the arrival of three patrol planes, answering a distress call, scared the undersea craft away.

Survivors of Eighteenth Sub Attack Reach Safety

Pictured at Atlantic City, N. J., are the 12 survivors of the torpedoed American tanker India Arrow who were rescued from their lifeboat after drifting for 36 hours. They claimed that 26 fellow crew members were lost when oil flames from the shelled tanker enveloped their lifeboat. The sistership of the 8,327-ton India Arrow, which was the 18th vessel to be attacked by enemy submarines in the Atlantic, is seen below.

U. S. Hunts These Nazi Raiders Off East Coast

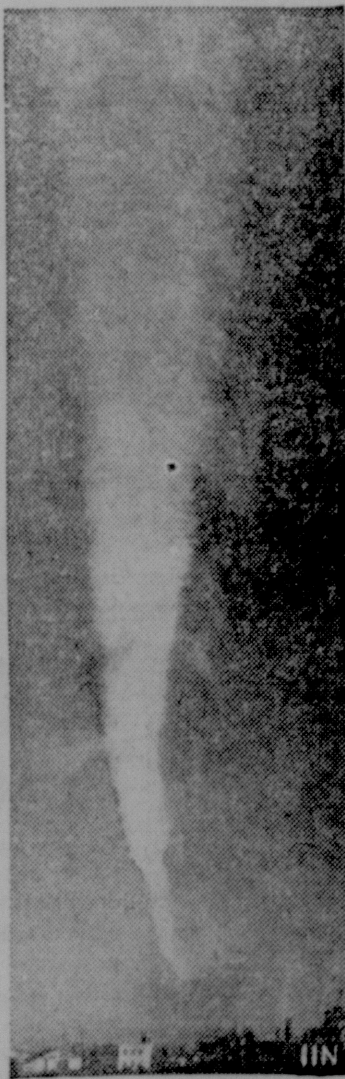

Nazi U-boats, perhaps some like this one, which is among Germany's latest type submarines, have taken a heavy toll in U. S. shipping in American Atlantic waters. Latest victim of the sea warfare, the freighter San Gil, sent to the bottom off the Maryland coast, was the 15th U. S. ship to be attacked. Death toll already has passed 350.

$500,000 "Dream"

J. Dewey Abraham
Accused of swindling investors out of approximately $500,000, J. Dewey Abraham, 57-year-old promoter, has surrendered to Chicago authorities who claim he has admitted his guilt. Complaints said Abraham represented himself as a kin of Bernard Baruch. The syndicate was said to have had advance knowledge of government sites for defense purposes and to be in a position to buy them up and resell. Authorities quoted Abraham as saying, "Everything was a dream. The syndicate was a dream. Baruch was a dream."

A tornado? No, out it looks like a twister, doesn't it? The plume in the sky over the municipal airport at Kansas City, Mo., is the port at Kansas left by an army purgesuit plane. Hats Go Patriotic, Too

Spring dresses for immediate wear in town are decking themselves out with splashes of cheery gay colors. The first dark sheers are splashed with light, bright shades, as notice the three models shown above. The navy sheer shown left has long sleeves and a full pleated peplum of light blue faille, forming a deep point in front. The faille faces the circular cuffs at the tight wrists. Dainty lingerie ruffles on navy blue is a weakness of New York designers this year. The frock in the center is a navy sheer with buttoned-on organdie cuffs and frills. The skirt is flared and pin tucked, with four horizontal folds, evenly spaced, which give it unusual interest. The black dress, right, has a striking plastron of dusty pink faille. Draped double folds of the faille extend across the shoulders, forming a smart effect of width. The plastron covers the entire bodice front, is shaped to the figure, and extends in two brief points below the belt line, forming a double-pointed skirt yoke onto which the skirt is shirred.

East Liverpool Cagers Hand Quakers 4th Loss Of Season, 61-34

VOLIO SHINES AS LOCALS' BID FOR NO. 10 WIN FAILS

Dick Treleven Tallies 22 In Potters' 12th Win Of Campaign

Falling to show the brand of ball which has come to be expected of them by Salem cage fans, the Salem High Quakers suffered a humiliating 61-34 setback at the hands of Coach Bill Laughlin's well-drilled East Liverpool court squad on the local hardwood last night. The loss was the fourth of the campaign for the locals and the win the 12th of the season for the Ceramists.

Sparked by rangy Dick Treleven who drilled 22 points through the hoop, the river city crew took a lead early in the second frame and continued to pile up points until the outcome of the game was settled in their favor. The home team battled on practically even terms with their opponents in the first period which ended with the visitors on the long end of a 14-12 count but after that it became just a matter of how many points the Potters were going to tally.

Quaker Spark Dies
The failure of the Quaker drive in the second period after an evenly fought first stanza cost them whatever chance they had of coping with the win as the East Liverpool crew continued to pepper the hoops from all angles to run up a 27-18 margin at the intermission. Treleven and Cunningham had 10 and eight points respectively at this stage of the game while Sal Guapone led the Salem contingent with six markers.

The rest period between halves failed to cool off the torrid Potters and they took up in the third chapter just where they had left off in the previous one. Treleven counted a bucket and five free throws to lead the visitors' attack in this period while Johnny Volio, the Quakers' high point man for the night, hit five points. In the final quarter, it was a walkway for the Laughlin charges and they dropped in 18 tallies to cool any Salem ideas of a late period spurt.

Treleven garnered six fielders and an amazing total of 10 free shots to give him a total of 22 points for the evening's work while Cunningham tossed in a like number of two-pointers for 12 tallies. Volio paced the Salem attack with an even dozen markers while Guapone, Sam Priddy and Carl Capei proved invaluable to what represented the Quaker attack.

Handicapped by the fine defense thrown against him and his teammates by the snappy Ceramist City five, the Quakers' ace, Capt. Ray McGaffick was held to a grand total of three points. His ejection from the fray in the fourth period for too many fouls came after the damage had been done and did not hurt the locals' victory hopes. Guapone also left the game via this route in the same period as did Joe Chan and Bobby Brown for the Liverpool cagers.

Potter Defense Good

Aside from their offense, the Potters displayed a defense that was a masterpiece in perfection. In the star's role in this department was dinky Bob Waters who did a fine job in holding down his man throughout the entire game. He also contributed seven points to the East Liverpool cause. Treleven, in addition to his 22 point scoring effort, also played a nice defensive game.

The Quakers were again the smaller team on the floor last night but the difference in height didn't mean too much as the Potters' hit a good many shots from way out. The visitors made a better than average percentage of their action shots and excelled from the foul stripe with 15 conversions in 18 attempts. The locals, on the other hand, were well below par on action shots and made only 10 of 19 free throws.

The Quakers' next opponent will be the Wellsville Tigers who were greatly weakened by mid-year graduation a few weeks ago. The locals in playing another tilt on the home floor hope to rack up their 10th triumph of the year.

Goshen Beaten As Rally Fails, 38-36

The Goshen cagers dropped their eighth decision of the campaign last night as they lost to North Lima, 38-36, on the Limans' floor. The home team took an early lead, built it up and then managed to stave off a desperate Goshen bid for victory in the last half. Goshen scored 27 in the last half.

Bush and M. Sahli featured for the winners with 11 and nine points respectively while Norm Flick and Kenny Santee paced Goshen with 12 and 10 markers.

In the preliminary game, the Goshen reserves lost a close one, 28-26, in an overtime to the North Lima seconds. The loss was the seventh of the season for the Goshen five against eight wins.

Tuesday the Goshenites play hosts to a tough Howland quintet. The home team will be seeking revenge for early season defeat at the hands of the Howlanders. The reserve teams of the two schools will meet in the prelim.

FROSH SCORE 7TH VICTORY OF YEAR

Led by diminutive Ray Kelly, the Salem frosh five scored its second win of the season over the East Liverpool plebes, 31-18, in a preliminary to the varsity game last night. Kelly hooped 11 markers in the Quakers' victory drive.

The locals led all the way as they chalked up their seventh win of the campaign and the outcome was never in doubt after the initial quarter.

Walt Brian flipped in eight to further the Salem cause while Mullen led the Ceramists' attack with seven tallies.

The locals defeated the Potters, 36-25, in a previous meeting.

the grocer along with their money, and the grocer will paste the stamps on a card which he must turn in to the wholesaler in order to replenish his own sugar bins.

Many details of the plan roughly sketched by Henderson remained to be filled in later.

A primary question, which may not be answered for several months, was how additional sugar would be doled out to housewives who wish to do home canning and preserving.

Because the fruit-canning season is not imminent, OPA is leaving the question for later decision, merely promising that such sugar will be made available. It will come from stocks withheld from the general rationing, as will supplies for restaurants and hotels.

OPA officials said they recognized that household canning of fruits and vegetables would be an important factor in conserving the nation's supply of perishable foods. The tentative ration figure of 12 ounces of sugar per person per week will leave ample for canning purposes and for persons who do not eat at home, they said, because the total 1942 supply is estimated at about one one pound per capita.

In a telegram to President Roosevelt, the grand officers announced that "we do hereby unanimously pledge our full support of the United States government in the momentous struggle to safeguard freedom and democracy. We deem it a privilege to willingly accept the responsibilities that are required of the American people in order to win victory for our beloved country, the United States."

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—The idea of Rep. J. Harry McGregor (R-Chio) to permit income tax payments in ten installments is catching on "in the right places," he said today.

The Ohioan introduced a bill to carry it out and then wrote letters to men who could help push it along.

The budget bureau though well enough of the plan to suggest consideration by the house ways and means committee which handles tax matters, according to McGregor.

His bill would authorize the treasury to collect 1941 income assessments in ten equal installments instead of the customary four. You thus would have to pay only one-tenth of your tax on March 15.

This would mean something, said McGregor, particularly to persons whose income isn't what it was before priorities. Besides, he added in an interview, the government would be more apt to collect taxes in full because many persons could pay in ten installments.

"The purpose in presenting the bill," McGregor said, "is to relieve the burden placed on the tax payer. This will apply particularly to those called into military or naval service who will find it most difficult to meet the taxes on 1941 incomes on reduced service pay."

Raid Shelter at Plane Plant

CLERK AT HOSPITAL DRAWS SUSPENSION

COLUMBUS, Feb. 7. — Charges that C. G. Anthony, former chief clerk at the Lima State Hospital for the Criminal Insane, conducted a thriving loan business among his co-workers were made by state examiners today.

Examiners Thomas C. Huston and Anthony P. Zeier, in a report to State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson, said Anthony collected 4 per cent interest on his loans, whether they were for one or 30 days. Borrowers signed waivers on salary checks, thus allowing Anthony to cash them, retain his loan and interest, and give the employee the balance, the report added.

More than 550 employees were patrons of Anthony, the examiners said, and several signed affidavits that they did not see their checks for months, and some for years.

Anthony, reported to have conducted his loan business for 12 years, was suspended for 30 days when his loan business was disclosed to the welfare department.

The examiners' report, covering the period of Oct. 15, 1935, to May 3, 1941, complained of other practices, including:

Private sale of newspapers and magazines by James Henderson, the storekeeper; Homer Fooner, the tailor, collecting from patients for pressing and cleaning work, and attendants borrowing money from patients.

The report also criticized alleged careless housekeeping and general maintenance methods at the institution.

Dr. R. E. Bushong was appointed superintendent of the institution late last fall.
